Report from Maskat—Outbreak of Cholera.

Deputy Consul Fazel reports, July 12, as follows:

Within the last two weeks cholera has broken out in several small villages of Oman.

Many of the people in the interior left these villages when the disease had taken hold and came to Maskat, but fortunately proper steps were taken by the Sultan's medical officer, and few of them escaped quarantine.

So far 3 or 4 cases only have terminated fatally in this town and there have been few serious cases in the adjacent town of Muttra.

The authorities have taken great precautions to arrest the spread of the epidemic, and, in my opinion, it can not be considered of great danger so far and will probably be short lived.
